

GERMANS TRUST IN U. S. FAIRNESS

One Ray of Light in Post-War Darkness Comes From U. S.

FRANKFORT, Germany, Dec. 25.—A Dr. Walter Simon, the German foreign minister, in an article in the Frankfort Zeitung says that in the night, which covers Germany, he sees only one ray of light and "that comes from the land of the Stars and Stripes." He expresses the belief that Senator Harding will "not delay the establishment of a peace basis between Germany and America," and thinks that this, more than anything else, would tend to revive the spirit and economic life of the nation.

Although the outlook is very dark the foreign minister hopes that through patience and hard work the people that walk in darkness will see a great light.

PARIS CELEBRATES FIRST REAL HOLIDAY SINCE WAR

PARIS, Dec. 25.—Paris gave itself over today to a quiet but joyous Christmas—the first real one since the war.

The American Red Cross did its bit in ten European countries, giving the orphan children a taste of the American Christmas. Two hundred thousand of war waifs received bags of candy and toys, while needy mothers were presented with knitted articles. In Albania sixteen cases of rubeola made by the girls of the Pittsburgh public schools were distributed to the orphans. The meaning of Christmas was brought home in a similar way to the children of other war countries.

A spirit of gaiety animated all the gatherings at the hotels and restaurants in Paris last night. All restrictions were off and many persons were turned away because of lack of accommodations.

American visitors participated actively in the celebrations today and all the American organizations in Paris gave dinners and entertainments while the American churches held special services.

SANTA LIKES MOST OF WARSHIP, TARS PROVE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 25.—Jack-tars aboard the Wyoming, New York and other warships in the harbor proved today to several hundred poor children, sent from various institutions in San Francisco, that Santa Claus is just as likely to slide down a basket mast and drop to the deck as he is to come down a chimney.

Big Christmas trees ablaze with colored lights surrounded the gun turrets and the children enjoyed gifts, dinners, band music and sight-seeing tours aboard the "battle wagons" before being outfitted with clothing and shoes.

Soldiers and sailors in the city were guests instead of hosts, receiving gift boxes, dinners and entertainments while special attention was paid to the wounded soldiers in hospitals.

A dairy lunch concern looked its cash registers today and gave free meals to all comers.

OBREGON PROVIDES GIFTS FOR 80,000 NEEDY ONES

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Dec. 25.—President Alvaro Obregon this afternoon personally assisted in distributing gifts to more than eight thousand needy children here who were his guests at a Christmas celebration in a downtown park.

The president provided abundant toys, fruits and candies for all. He gave every child some useful article. The tree, which was more than sixty feet high, was selected by President Obregon and transported here by special train. With the approach of darkness two thousand electric candles flashed from its branches.

CRIME WAVE PREVENTS PARDONS IN CALIFORNIA

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 25.—For the first time in many years the governor today failed to grant the customary quota of Christmas pardons and paroles to convicts in the state's prisons. While no statement was forthcoming from Governor William D. Stephens or his secretaries as to the reason for breaking the precedent, it is understood that due to the crime wave in California, the governor considered it inadvisable to issue pardons to even the more worthy prisoners.

MRS. MACSWINEY STAYS AT HOME OF SEN. WALSH

CLINTON, Mass., Dec. 25.—Mrs. Mariel MacSwiney, widow of the late lord mayor of Cork, and the latter's sister, Miss Mary MacSwiney, were Christmas guests at the home of United States Senator David I. Walsh here. They arrived last night, accompanied by Harry Boland, secretary to Eamon de Valera, and were entertained by the senator's brother, Major Thomas L. Walsh, and his sister, Miss Mary Walsh.

IDAHO PROMISED MILLION DOLLAR ZINC REFINERY

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 25.—A million dollar electrolytic zinc refinery is to be built at Kellogg, Idaho, by the Bunker Hill & Sullivan Mining and Concentrating company, according to an announcement by Frank M. Smith, director of the company's smelter at Kellogg, here today.

Mr. Smith also announced the company's entry into the manufacture of lead plumbing material through the purchase of an interest in the Northwest lead company of Seattle.

The announcement was made following conferences with Frederick W. Bradley, president, and other officials of the company. The initial capacity of the proposed refinery will be 25 tons a day, Mr. Smith said, and the capacity will be doubled as soon as market conditions warrant. It probably will be two years before the plant is in operation, he stated.

POCATELLO MAN'S STORY TOUCHES HEART OF BANDIT

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 25.—The spirit of Christmas had a sufficient softening influence on the heart of a highwayman who held up and robbed R. F. Walker, a railroad switchman at Pocatello, Idaho, of $15 here last night, to force him to return $2.

"I asked the fellow not to leave me broke on Christmas, a stranger in a strange town," Walker said, "and this seemed to reach him."

CHURCH CONTRIBUTIONS SHOW ONLY TINY GAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—A United stewardship campaign in all Methodist Episcopal churches in the United States from January 17 to February 20, inclusive, was announced here today by Rev. Luther E. Lovejoy, of Chicago, secretary of the stewardship work of the committee on conservation and advances, of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The penny is still the basic standard of giving to both the church and Sunday school, Rev. Lovejoy's statement said. "Despite the fact that the aggregate wealth of the United States has increased ten times as much per capita, the average Methodist is contributing only 1 cent more per week as compared to 40 years ago."

WOMEN'S PARTY DEBATES WISDOM OF SEPARATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—Conferees of the National Woman's party, as a preliminary to the national convention to be held here February 15 to 19 were called today for January 13 and 28, the first for national executive committee members and the second for the national advisory council and state chairmen.

Reports will be prepared on the advisability of the party continuing as a separate political group and plans will be completed for the memorial pageant which will accompany the presentation on February 15 of statues to the capital of the suffrage pioneers, Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott.

HARDING SHOWERED WITH GIFTS FROM ADMIRERS

MARION, Ohio, Dec. 25.—President-elect and Mrs. Harding today celebrated Christmas by opening hundreds of Christmas presents received from all parts of the country by the senator-elect and his wife. The presents included a newspaper correspondent at dinner.

It was the first Christmas Senator-elect and Mrs. Harding spent in their Marion home in five years.

No political conferences were held and the day was devoted to rest and the celebration of the holiday. The presents received by the senator-elect ranged from cigarettes to Georgia possums.

M'CORMICK ENTERTAINS WAR ORPHANS IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Dec. 25.—United States Senator Medill McCormick entertained several hundred war orphans at an eight-course Christmas dinner this afternoon and presented the children with candy, toys and warm clothing.

The entertainment was arranged by the Quakers whom Senator McCormick came to Berlin to assist in the care of the children as possible and permit him to show them a good time.

SPANISH PREMIER WINS BY SCANT MAJORITY

MADRID, Dec. 25.—Definite results of the recent elections will not be known until tomorrow, but members of the cabinet declare that Premier Dato will have at least 25 supporters in the lower house which would give him a bare majority. The house contains 45 members.

SUGAR BEETS SUCCESS.

YAKIMA, Wash., Dec. 25.—Sugar beets grown in the Yakima valley during 1920 produced approximately 1,200,000 pounds of sugar, or 215 carloads, according to an announcement by W. D. Davis of Toppenish, Wash., representative of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company of Salt Lake City. Mr. Lewis said the crop of beets grown in Washington were worth about $500,000. He stated approximately $135,000 had already been paid out by his company. The growing of sugar beets is a comparatively new industry in Washington.

ALL-IDAHO TEAM.

MOSCOW, Idaho, Dec. 24.—Coach Thomas Kelley's University of Idaho football warriors are thoroughly and woolly Idahoan from Captain Plafino of Pocatello, who weighs in at about 190, down to aggressive little J. B. Gown of Caldwell, who tips the scales at 145. This is the statement of the university athletic department. Not a single man of the 13 who received the official football "P" for services on the gridiron during 1920 hailed from outside the state and most of the 13 not only were reared within the state, but also were born in Idaho.

Sutherland of Utah Sure of Post Under Harding, Says Writer

the four vacancies in the supreme court that are sure to occur during Senator Harding's administration. All the friends of Sutherland who know his career and the best of his mind are confident that this last would be his personal choice.

FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL.

A man who has known him since he first began practice before a justice of peace in little mining villages in the Rock mountains expressed the belief that, consciously or unconsciously or both, Sutherland has always been drawn by that goal which is attained by scholarship and thoroughness in the law rather than by great financial success. During the present week there has been more or less organized urging that even if Sutherland is later to go on the supreme bench he should first be made attorney general at the outset of the new administration. The theory behind this urging is that this appointment would give the office of attorney general the color of character and legal ability that ought always to be maintained for it—that such an appointment would be quickly appreciated by the public and would be a most valuable addition to the momentum of favorably recognition for the outset of the new presidential administration.

So far as comparisons can be made, the attorney general is that one of the cabinet members in whom character and unimpeachable reputation are most important.

DUTIES OF POST.

He has to do with the enforcement of the law, with advising congress as to the constitutionality of proposed statutes and with the appointment of federal judges. Every attorney general is constantly under assault for favor, leniency in enforcing the law, for pardons for compromises. Also the attorney general possesses a power which there is always a temptation to use for political intimidation. He is, of all the cabinet appointments that one who ought to be most free from subjection to political pressure, and from the suspicion of a political motive or any motive other than that of pure justice and clear reason.

BORN IN ENGLAND.

Sutherland is British by birth. When he was a few months old he was brought to Utah. His father was a mining man who later, by virtue of qualities of helpfulness toward his neighbors and common sense, came to be accepted in the irregular way of frontier communities, as the law giver of the little towns where his occupation took him.

Sutherland himself was trained in the law at the University of Michigan, and began his practice in these same frontier communities, where law was accepted and obeyed, not because it was printed in the books but because it appealed to the common sense and instinct for justice and for the right of the strong men who made up those communities. In those courts a lawyer could not win his cases by merely quoting legal maxims—he had to go further and convince the rough common sense of the community that these maxims were merely the ancient crystallizations of fundamental justice in human relations. It is noteworthy that a number of best lawyers in the senate have come up from this kind of training—Democrats like Senator Walsh of Montana, and former Senator Thomas of Utah, and Republicans like Borah of Idaho, as well as Sutherland. Later in his career Sutherland became a leading lawyer of Salt Lake City, and as such was counsel for the Union Pacific and the Oregon Short Line.

He participated in a way in the constitution and the fundamental laws of his state at the time it was admitted to the Union. Still later he served a term in congress and came to the senate in 1905.

HIGH SPOTS OF CAREER.

The high spots of his career in the senate were the laborious work of committees, of which he was the head, which reviewed, condensed, and brought up to date and codified the entire body of civil and criminal statutes passed by the national government since its beginning. Almost any lawyer would admit that, other things being equal, this colossal work alone would make a unique fitness for the office of attorney general.

Sutherland was also chairman of the committee that wrote the federal workmen's compensation law which has been a model for half the states of the union. Finally, in a way probably not less important, the help Sutherland gave to Senator LaFollette in the passing of the seamen's act was one of the high spots in his career in the senate. The passage of the seamen's act was one of the greatest victories of recent years for humanitarian principles of human freedom as against the convenience of property interests.

CONSERVATIVE WING.

Senator Sutherland had always been thought of as belonging to the conservative rather than the progressive wing of the Republican party, and when he was quick to see the application of fundamental principles of Anglo-Saxon law to the circumstances presented by the seamen's act, the list of his advocacy made friends for the act among conservatives who had confidence in him and who could not otherwise have won it.

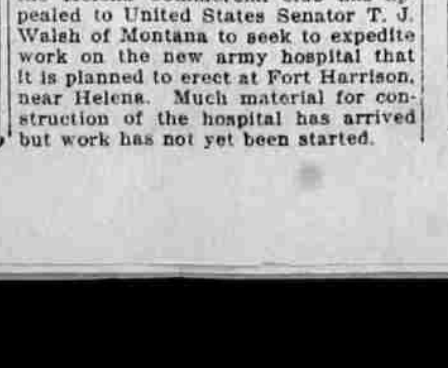

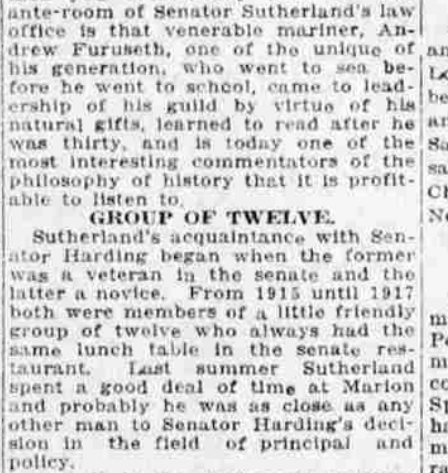

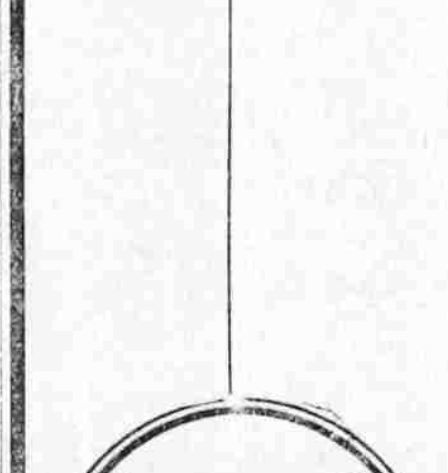

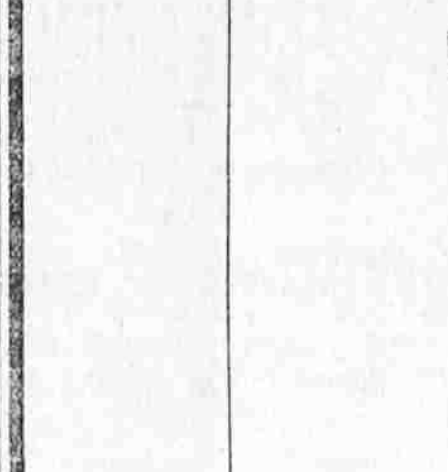

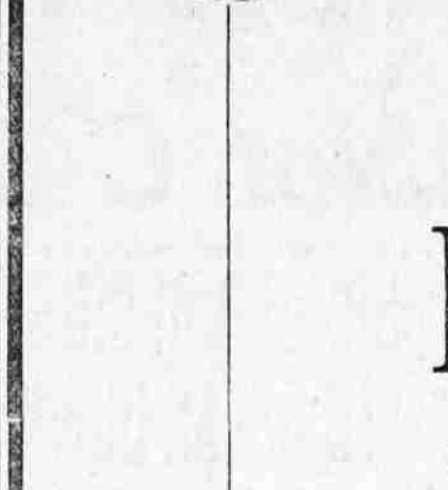

It is probably because of this inclination that the seamen's union is now one of Sutherland's clients. Probably it accounts for the fact that among the men you occasionally meet in the ante-room of Senator Sutherland's law office is that venerable mariner, Andrew Furuseth, one of the unique of his generation, who went to sea before he went to school, came to leadership of his guild by virtue of his natural gifts, learned to read after he was thirty, and is today one of the most interesting commentators of the philosophy of history that it is profitable to listen to.

GROUP OF TWELVE.

Sutherland's acquaintance with Senator Harding began when the former was a veteran in the senate and the latter a novice. From 1915 until 1917 both were members of a little friendly group of twelve who always had a same lunch table in the senate restaurant. Last summer Sutherland spent a good deal of time at Marion and probably he was as close as any other man to Senator Harding's decision in the field of principal and policy.

But, it is the permanent qualities of Sutherland's mind rather than the accident of his acquaintance that has given rise to the speculation about Sutherland as attorney general or as a justice of the supreme court.

In reply to an agent's query "What's that got there?" Miller winked and replied: "Sh-sh, forbidden fruit."

Ordered to open the bags Miller obeyed, and the dry officers discovered sixteen quarts of whiskey and five gallons of alcohol.

NO TREATY DRAWN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—It has been known here for some time that negotiations were in progress looking to the drafting of a new Japanese-American treaty involving the California land law, to which Vicecount Uchida, Japanese foreign minister, referred at preliminary meetings of the diet yesterday, but it is believed that they have not so far taken the form of a treaty.

While details of the negotiations have been withheld, it is understood that the underlying principle has been to preserve the rights of Japanese residents of Pacific coast states to property which has been legally acquired but of which they would be deprived by application of the new law in California at least.
